

Nomination of Cohabiting Partner For Survivor's Pension

If you are married or are in a registered civil partnership, you are automatically covered for a survivor benefit in the event of your death. However provided you have paid into the LGPS on or after 1 April 2008, if you have a cohabiting partner, of either opposite or same sex, they will be entitled to receive a survivor's pension on your death if they meet the criteria to be considered to be an eligible cohabiting partner. From 1 April 2014 it is no longer necessary to complete a Nomination of Cohabiting Partner form for your partner to be entitled to receive benefits in the event of your death. However, you may wish to complete and return the form below to ensure that RCTCBC Pension Fund are aware of your personal circumstances.

There would be a right of appeal if a decision is made not to pay a pension and your partner believes that he/she has entitlement.

Please note, all the conditions listed must have applied to you and your partner for a continuous period of at least 2 years on the date you sign the nomination form

On your death, a survivor's pension would be paid to your cohabiting partner provided we are satisfied that:
